Eunjee Kong

South Korean, b. 1987 · artsy.net/artist/eunjee-kong-gongeunji

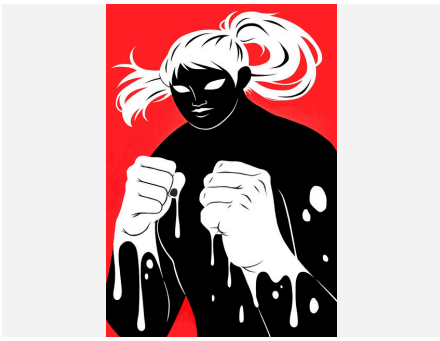

Eunjee Kong (공은지) creates paintings that examine femininity, bodily presence, and collective identity through monumental female figures. Using acrylic and colored pencil on canvas, she constructs stark compositions of black silhouettes against saturated red fields, merging the immediacy of illustration with the physicality of painting.

Drawing inspiration from Greek mythology and ancient Greek pottery painting, Kong transforms the body into a site of tension, resilience, and psychological weight. Her figures resist conventional representations of femininity, instead occupying space with solidity, confrontation, and emotional ambiguity.

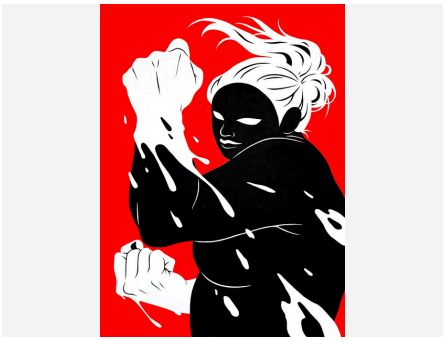

Kong has presented three solo exhibitions and participated in over 40 group exhibitions and numerous art fairs in Korea and internationally. Her works are held in the collection of the National Taiwan Museum of Fine Arts.

Jeongsik Yi

South Korean, b. 1981 · artsy.net/artist/jeongsik-yi

Yijeongsik expands the visual language of traditional Korean landscape painting into a contemporary context, exploring the boundary between nature and the human inner world. Using ink and acrylic on canvas, he creates layered surfaces and flowing compositions that suggest connections to unseen realms through the imagery of mountains and pathways.

His works are not simple representations of landscapes, but psychological spaces where memory, emotion, and traces of time overlap. The empty spaces within the composition function not as absence, but as places where sensation and contemplation remain, inviting viewers to project their own experiences onto the work.

Rooted in the spirituality of traditional painting while embracing a contemporary sensibility, Yijeongsik develops a distinctive painterly language that reflects the circulation of nature and the continuous flow of existence.

Recent presentations with M Gallery, Shinbuldang Art Center include ONE ART Taipei 2026 (Taipei, Taiwan), BAMA 2026 (Busan), ART FAIR DAEGU 2026, the two-person exhibition This Side and That Side with Eunjee Kong (2025), and the solo exhibition Heterotopia (2024).
